ALL EUROPE, SAVE FINLAND, MAY DEFAULT ON U. S. DEBT

12-BILLION WAR DEBTS ALL MAY BE DEFAULTED

France, Italy to Line Up With Britain; Finns Will Pay

By The Associated Press
Washington, June 5.—The twelve billion dollar war debt that Europe owes the United States became a badly frozen asset today.

Now that Great Britain—for the first time in the proud history of that Empire—has decided to default, other countries are believed likely to follow suit.

Only little Finland has announced it will pay its full installment of $166,338 on the June 15. The prospects of receiving any cash on $474,000,000 due was considered extremely remote.

Great Britain said she would defer all payments on her four-billion-dollar debt until inter-governmental talks revise the debt funding agreements on a payable basis. Britain is collecting nothing from its debtors, the note declared, and payments to America would necessitate a confession to police, which would retard world recovery.

"While suspending further payments until it becomes possible to discuss an ultimate settlement with a reasonable prospect of settlement," the note declared, "Great Britain has no intention of repudiating its obligations and is prepared to enter into discussions on the subject whenever President Roosevelt considers such discussions would be likely to produce results of value."

Ten other European debtors are expected to phrase notes in similar vein.

By The Associated Press
Paris, June 5.—Paris newspapers hailed Great Britain's decision to suspend war debt payments today as proof that France was right in defaulting and that henceforth a united Europe will oppose America on the question.

"France was right, war debts are dead," said headlines in the paper.

France, now that she has Great Britain for a companion as a defaulter, is expected to press new efforts to liquidate her huge war debt to the United States.

London, June 5.—Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, said today that Great Britain would pay nothing on her forthcoming war debt installment—would have paid at least a "token" on June 15 but for the fact that President Roosevelt could not guarantee Great Britain would not be classed as a defaulter.

Rome, June 5.—Some official circulation regarding the Italian payment due June 15 is likely to parallel that of England, that is, Italy probably will not pay anything.

Sebastiano Venzetti, 53, was found critically wounded under the heart today by a customer at his restaurant, 44 Marglin street, Salem. He was taken to the Salem Hospital where his name was placed on the danger list.

The revolver and two farewell notes written in Italian were found, police said.

LIPP TO STUDY WELFARE DATA

Louis R. Lipp, supervisor of social service in the division of Old Age Assistance of the State Department of Public Welfare will make a survey of the books of the department and make suggestions to improve the service.

This decision was made after Selectman William J. Hickey, Jr., had suggested to the board that a survey be made and Miss Kate Ellis, agent of the local board said she had requested State Commissioner Richard K. Conant to send an official to Brookline to make a survey.

The complaint came about a result of a request made for figures which were not available for four days.

Miss Joyce Will Pay Bills to Save Home

Nice, France, June 5 (AP)—Peggy Hopkins Joyce has dispatched an urgent cablegram to her sheriff saying she will pay the butcher, baker and dressmaker to save the home.

Traders here had attached her French villa, and officials were threatening to dispose of them at auction to pay bills of the merchants. Peggy, it was alleged, had neglected to take care of the accounts before leaving for America recently.

The cablegram said she is leaving New York for France June 6 and that she is prepared to meet all her bills.

STOLEN CAR, WITH DENTED HOOD, AFTER TRAGEDY ON LOOP
Dented hood, in circle, and smashed headlamp on the stolen car that last night struck and killed Officer James T. Malloy in the Bunker Hill "loop" speedway, bear cruel testimony to the force of the impact that hurled the policeman into eternity. Officer Malloy was in the act of laying the spike-studded "magic carpet" to halt the racing machine, when he was struck and dragged 100 yards. James D. Taylor, 18, of Washington square, Charlestown, has confessed being in the death car, police said. (Picture by Boston Evening American Staff Photographer.)

TREAT GLANDS FOR HEART
By Associated Press
Worcester, Mass., June 5.—The advanced practice of removing the normal thyroid glands in the treatment of certain heart ailments was the subject of a lecture given by Dr. Hermann L. Blumgart, associate professor of medicine, Harvard Medical School, and Dr. David D. Berlin, assistant professor of anatomy, Tufts Medical School, today before the surgery section of the annual meeting of the Massachusetts Medical Society.

Dr. Blumgart and Dr. Berlin described in detail, with illustrations, the work done at the Beth Israel Hospital in Boston in the total ablation of the thyroid gland, and gave figures to show the successful results from these operations.

An exception in the work, Dr. A. A. Weinstein, said that the final effect of the operation is to decrease the demands of the tissue and therefore provide through the operation the rest generally provided by putting a patient to bed or drastically reducing his activities.

The removal of the thyroid gland is compensated for by the administration of thyroxine to maintain the vital level of basal metabolism.

Hit-Run Victim Gave 3-Year-Old Baby New Doll
By PEGGY DOYLE
On the floor of a neighbor's home in Hyde Park, three-year-old fixen-haired, blue-eyed Marjorie Malloy played happily today with a flash-haired blue-eyed doll given her yesterday on her birthday by her policeman daddy.

"Take your baby to bed with you," said Marjorie's daddy as he left the birthday party to sport for duty, "and see if I can find out which is which when I get home."

But Patrolman Malloy never got home last night, although little Marjorie does not know that yet, and knowing it, probably would not understand.

He was killed on "the loop" in Charlestown by two boys apes, while Marjorie, the doll beside her, slumbered peacefully, with her daddy never returning to see if he could pick one from the other of the two heads.

SPREADING OF "MAGIC" CARPET FATAL TO PATROLMAN
It was while unrolling this so-called "magic" carpet bearing upright spikes, used to trap speed fiends in the Charlestown loop, that Patrolman Malloy was run down and dragged to death by car that young Hart is alleged to have confessed he was driving. Patrolman Charles M. McNeill, at left, is shown assessing Patrolman Hilary A. Gasper of Station 15, its inventory, in demonstrating how the carpet is manipulated. GURLEY OPENS RACE DRIVE

Mr. Gurley stated that in 1924 when he campaigned against former Governor Alvan T. Fuller he received pledges of support from 700,000 citizens of the Commonwealth and was given a total vote of 400,000 this figure being 80,000 in excess of the largest vote ever given any Democratic candidate for State office prior to that time.

Mr. Gurley is confident that he will be nominated by the Democratic delegates in convention in Worcester on June 13, and he plans to open a State-wide drive for registration of voters immediately after that meeting.

CURLEY'S LETTER
In his communication to his friends the former mayor wrote:

"As Governor of the Commonwealth it was my duty to do what I could for the betterment of the condition of the citizenship of the nation."

"The forces that have so long controlled the law-making bodies of the land and the finances of the nation will in this contest be found arrayed against me."

ASTOR FORGIVES MOTHER'S LOVE FOR FIGHTER.

Reconciliation of John Jacob Astor, 3d, his mother and his light heavyweight championship as a fighter took place last Saturday at the exclusive Brooks school, North Andover.

The Boston Evening American learned today that Astor, his mother, her pugilistic husband, and Mrs. Piermont's two sons by a former marriage held a family reunion at the school.

They talked together for several hours and discussed Astor's approaching marriage to Miss Ellen French.

They discussed Mrs. Piermont's marriage to the 20-year-old pugilist who taught his bride's children the line points of boxing.

They discussed Mrs. Piermont's return to the ring and his approaching battle for the light heavyweight championship of the world with "Sluggo" Max Baer.

EVERYBODY'S HAPPY

John Jacob Astor, 3d, bestowed his blessing upon the Piermonts, upon which he first frowned.

Mrs. Piermont bestowed her blessings on the approaching Astor-French nuptials.

And John and William Dick, Mrs. Piermont's former pupils, wished their former tutor "God bless you" to "knock off" Rosenbloom's title.

Mrs. Piermont and her husband arrived in Boston Friday night and returned to their New York home last night.

The announcement made today by Jimmy Johnston, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, that Piermont would fight Rosenbloom created a surprise in New York social circles.

Piermont announced at the time of his marriage to the former Dick that he had renounced the ring at the request of his mid-bleeding bride.

TIES OF SOCIAL WHIRL

With that announcement, Johnston, who handled Piermont in all his fights in this country, thought he had severed the ties of the Italian sheik of the ring.

But Piermont grew bored of telling around his wife's yacht at Palm Beach and of attending afternoon teas with his wife's society friends and yearned for the arena of the ring and the thrill of landing a smashing left hook.

Piermont persuaded Johnston to go after Rosenbloom for the championship battle and then used his most persuasive—slightly hooded—English to convince his wife that he should again step into the ring.

Piermont hasn't missed seeing a major fight in New York since his retirement for the better things in life. He was at the recent Max Baer-McLaglin fight and at the Corbett-Loughlin bout in Miami last winter.

BOME ARE ENVIUS

When Piermont enters the ring to battle Rosenbloom he will have the greatest collection of blue-blooded ever gathered at a ring-side to cheer him—or there may be some there to see Sluggo Maxie slip him around.

For it has been reported that many of the smart set at Palm Beach were envious of the young Italian with the body of a Greek god who captured the admiring glances of the ladies.

Mrs. Astor Dick and Piermont met when he was teaching the Dick boys the finer points of boxing. Their friendship ripened to love and they were married six months ago at Doctors' Hospital, New York, while she was recuperating from a broken arm sustained in a fall from a horse in Bermuda.

Their honeymoon was spent in a mansion on "Millionaire row" in Palm Beach.

Young Astor Always Held Spotlight Fortitude of Mother Won Plaudits of World

JOHN JACOB ASTOR, III

ELLEN TUCK FRENCH

(This is the fourth in a series of articles setting forth some dramatically tragic or gloriously exciting events in the glided lives of two of this country's oldest families, the Astors and the Frenches. If nothing unforeseen happens, although it did in young Astor's contemplated union with Miss Ellen Gillespie of New York, these two families will be joined with the forthcoming marriage of John Jacob Astor, 3d, and Miss Ellen Tuck French.)

By PEGGY DOYLE

Although he admittedly finds it disconcerting, young John Jacob Astor, 3d, should not find the spotlight's glare altogether unfamiliar. When he was a day old, photographers stormed his home to get a picture of the famous "Titanic Baby," whose father's vast wealth and dramatic passing had occasioned world-wide interest in his arrival.

A small army of the country's leading physicians and its most-skilled nurses were to attend upon his lovely mother when he came into that world on Aug. 14, 1912, with the well-known silver spoon of platitude in his rosy-bud mouth.

Less than four months before the former Madeline Talmadge Forer, a beautiful but unknown young woman, whose sweetest and charming captivated Newport society when she made her debut in that crime de la creme set as the second Mrs. John Jacob Astor, had exchanged her role of radiant bride for sorrowing widow with the sinking of the Titanic.

Radiant Bride Is Sorrowing Widow

Her patient fortitude and Colonel Astor's baron during the dreadful hour of suspense preceding the disaster were widely commented upon, one of the saviors manning the lifeboat in which Mrs. Astor was brought to safety asserted that she was "the bravest little woman I ever met and the Colonel was a man all through."

"Mrs. Astor was in No. 4, the last boat to be launched," the sailor, Jack Foley, later related to the newspaper. "After we had all the women and the children in the boat we discovered that we couldn't launch her until we removed the sounding apparatus. Colonel Astor kept telling her that he was sure to be saved and that it was her duty to see that she stretched out her arm just as though she were pleading with him to let her get out of the boat and take her place with him. Mr. Astor picked up a heavy alcoholer and wrapped it about her shoulders."

"After pulling those eight women on the ship, Mrs. Astor made some kind of a snarl, but I couldn't understand whether she said anything or merely sobbed. She turned her head away from the direction of the vessel."

Dies With Words of "Greatest Adventure"

When the Carpathia dove in eight, two sailors in Lifeboat 4 were dead and the women survivors were too chilled and exhausted to note that the great "unsinkable" ship was already going fast to its doom.

Other survivors brought back word that multi-millionaire Astor, shortly after he had waved adieu to his bride, saying: "Goodbye, Madeline; I will come on the next boat." He had gone down with the ship, muttering something about "the greatest adventure of all."

Scarcely had the news of the sinking tragedy been set over the country's telegraph wires before speculation was busy with the exact dimensions of the fortune left by the deceased Astor and whether his expected child of high

CONGRESS ALL SUMMER SESSION

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, June 5.—An all-summer session confronted Congress today if administration leaders attempt to carry out President Roosevelt's demand for enactment of a six-point "must" legislative program.

A militant Republican minority in the Senate virtually served notice on the Democrats that battle enactment of each measure on the program if adjournment were postponed beyond Saturday. The program concerned the Senate chiefly, since the House is under a liberal "gag" law. Armed with the "must" list, a quarter century ago, House leaders will be able to pass any legislation they desire, and as quickly as they desire. They showed their power by enacting a $178,000,000 unemployment relief appropriation after 40 minutes debate—at a rate of $20,450,000 a minute.

The Senate started the President's new program by making his new silver bill its "unfinished business," after enacting the reciprocal tariff.

Besides the silver bill, the President required enactment of the highly controversial Wagner Labor Disputes bill, the equally controversial Wallace Farm Loaning act, and his own new housing program.

On the other side of the House, the bill-dollars unemployment relief appropriation was acted along with another appropriation bill for the relief of drought-stricken areas.

Police Bill Faces Battle in House

Governor Ely's police unification bill comes up for debate in the House tomorrow or Thursday and despite the "ought to pass" reports of the house ways and means committee, a stormy session is anticipated.

Although the members of the house committee filed a favorable report, it is understood that several members are not satisfied with the present draft of the bill.

One of the amendments which members of the committee wish to add to the present bill is that which gives to state police authority to take charge of the investigation of crime in emergencies.

HOUNDS PUT ON DILLINGER'S RED TRAIL

By International News Service
Scottsburg, Ind., June 5.—Bloodhounds were put on the trail today of an outlaw band suspected of being John Dillinger's, which blazed a streak of death last night across southern Indiana.

At the same time police were tipped that an automobile load of mobsters was speeding toward New Albany, Ind., in flight across the Ohio river. A police broadcast said they occupied a car bearing Ohio license AA-7387.

The bloodhounds were rushed from Lexington, Ky., and immediately moved their way into the heart of the state forest preserve at Henryville, near Underwood, where Deputy Sheriff Harold Amick, 25, was shot to death.

ONE BANDIT SHOT
Tracks apparently of three persons, blood-stained rage and a pool of blood were found in the forest but could not be followed before the bloodhounds arrived.

The race supported a belief that at least one of the gangsters was wounded in the running gun fight along U. S. Highway 31, from Seymour to Underwood, night.

Ralph Shields, 37, a farmer of Underwood, was kidnapped later by a man believed to be one of the mobsters.

He was forced at pistol point to give his automobile to the bandit and then to accompany him in it. SHOOT TWO OFFICERS

The abductor and his captive, with the latter at the wheel, were sighted at South Boston, Ind., at 5:30 a. m.

Deputy Sheriff Amick, forced the outlaw car into a ditch near Underwood and was shot in the head. He died three hours afterward at St. Edward Hospital at New Albany.

Only a few minutes earlier Night Patrolman John Pfaffenberg, 23, was shot down with four bullets at road intersection on the outskirts of Seymour as he attempted to halt the gangsters. He remained in critical condition today at a hospital there but hope was held for his recovery.

N. H. DRY ERA ENDS TODAY

By Associated Press
Concord, N. H., June 5.—New Hampshire got its hard liquor law in the wee hours of today.

Governor John C. Winant signed the state-store bill shortly after 5 o'clock this morning and ended 37 years of state prohibition.

The Legislature tarried 15 days in special session before shaping up a measure agreeable to both branches and to the governor. The last few days were spent arguing over a single provision, the personnel of the state liquor board.

Republicans and Democrats of the House and Senate looked haggard on the board make-up. Both branches finally agreed to accept a three-member board with salaries of $4000 each.

As the 15th day of controversy drew to a close, the Legislature presented a bill for Governor Winant's signature.

MILLEN SKILL PROVES FRACTURE, SAYS JURY

Trial Near End With Verdict Possible by Thursday Night; Dr. Briggs says Stronger Mind Led Irving

By WIN BROOKS

Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent
Dedham Courthouse, June 5.—New X-ray photographs of Murton Milten's skull were taken at Dedham jail during the luncheon recess of the Milten-Faber trial today after a state medical expert had contradicted the defense claim that plates previously shown the jury disclosed a fracture.

The battle to prove or disprove the sanity of the three defendants who confessed the Needham bank robbery and murders moved swiftly towards its close with prospects of the case reaching the jury late Thursday.

The new X-rays were made by Dr. Arie W. George, Boston expert, summoned by the state, and Dr. John W. Maschen, defense expert who made the state before and interpreted them as showing a fracture.

GROWN TO JUBON
The plates were shown to the jury again today by Dr. George, called in government effect, testified they gave no indication of a fracture or of any cranial abnormality. At the request of the Milten defense chief, George Rittenley Harvey, the jury ground around the plates as they were shown against a light background on the clerk's desk.

Agreement to make a new set of plates was reached at Harvey's request. There was a possibility the action would delay the case of the trial until tomorrow.

Robert S. Leonard of Quincy, an insurance agent, was the state's first witness to put into evidence the insurance policy of Mrs. Philip Faber's sister, Lena Goodman, which the state claims shows she was accidentally killed. The Faber's mother had testified the death of her sister was suicidal.

Dr. L. Vernon Briggs, the Briggs was a psychiatrist, returned after the testimony of Dr. Leonard and was subjected to cross-examination on his definite opinion that Murton and Irving Milten were sane and had a knowledge of the consequences of what they were doing at the time of the crime.

IRVING NERF INSANE
Although arguing Irving was sane in the border of hebementism, Dr. Briggs disagreed with defense medical testimony that he was a "twilight case" bordering on psychosis.

Dr. Briggs stated that in his opinion Irving had been the tool of stronger minds for years. Dist-Atty. Edmund R. Dewing testified to this testimony but Judge Brown ruled it could go in, saying the jury would be instructed that low mentality is no excuse by crime.

Dr. Briggs' modified opinion of the Faber's sanity — a definite opinion at the start of the trial — was heard testimony that Faber is suffering from confusion of the mind — the "high C" or "yester" — the Faber's own lawyer, W. R. Schmitt, had argued at length in an effort to keep the doctor's opinion out of evidence.

QUALITIES OPINION
He did say that if Faber is suffering from the disease, it would cause him to modify his opinion of the sane, and that the disease would be apt to effect the judgment of right and wrong and possibly bring him under the domination of a stronger will than his own. He did not appreciate the consequences of his act.

His failure positively to state without qualification an opinion that he was sane was the only opinion that he gave.

About Machine Age NEGLECT U.S. ASKS $500,000

Suit for $500,000 damages was filed today in New York federal court by the United States government against the White Star line Olympic because of the sinking of the Nantuxet Shoal lightship on May 15 with the loss of seven lives. The suit charges that the collision was "due solely to the fault and negligence of the steamship Olympic, and those in charge of her."

The government makes the demand that the Olympic be condemned and sold to pay the damages sought.

The suit lists eleven counts of alleged negligence on the part of the line. These charges were:

"1. She was not in charge of a competent person."
"2. She failed to keep a proper lookout."
"3. Her officers and crew on watch were incompetent and inattentive to their duties."

"4. She was proceeding at a high, excessive and dangerous rate of speed in a fog."
"5. She failed to take any or proper bearings to ascertain her position."

"6. She was being navigated on a course to pass too close to the lightship."

"7. She failed to stop or slow her engines when the signals of the lightship were heard."

"8. After hearing the fog signal of the lightship she failed to navigate with caution until danger of collision was passed."

"9. She failed to take proper course so as to pass clear of a lightship which was a moving vessel."

"10. She collided with No. 117, (the lightship) which was a moving vessel."

"11. When danger of collision was or should have been apparent, she failed to take proper steps to avoid the same."

Dr. Shattuck was made on account of the members of the lightship's crew who were killed.

The Olympic, which returned to Europe a few days after the collision, is due in New York late today from Southampton and Cherbourg. She is scheduled to sail again Friday night for Europe.

FACES DRUG CHARGE

Dr. Ray Shattuck, prominent in the defense of the Faber in the Milten-Faber trial was charged with violation of drug laws in warehouse located in Dorchester district court.

Action was taken against the physician, a graduate of Middlesex College of Medicine and Surgery, following three weeks of investigation by Federal Narcotic Agent Charles Burrows and Special Officer Daniel Curran of the Boston police narcotic squad, police said.

QUESTIONED BY AGENTS
After questioning by the federal authorities, he went to Boston police headquarters. He was not under arrest.

While Dr. Shattuck waited at police headquarters with Detective William Toher in the Bureau of Records and Criminal Statistics, Flaherty, head of the Detective Bureau, and Leo Schwarz, legal adviser to Commissioner Hultman, went to Dedham to confer with District Attorney Edmund R. Dewing.

Fabry and Schwarz wished to ask the Norfolk county prosecutor's advice as to whether the warrants should be served on Dr. Shattuck at this time—while the Milten-Faber trial is still in progress.

It was revealed that three warrants, one containing three counts and the other one count each, had been issued by District Attorney Dewing on the day.

The warrants charge that he prescribed morphine to persons "not in good faith."

Dr. Shattuck, who has an office in Columbia road, Dorchester, played a prominent part in the defense of Abraham Faber at Dedham, twice taking the witness stand.

APPEARED LAST WEEK
His first appearance was during a period that the jury was excluded while the fight over the Faber confession was on. Again last week he was heard on his testimony before the jury.

Dr. Shattuck testified he received conflicting reports from the Harvard medical school laboratory on serum taken from Faber.

He said he first got a negative result when he tested the serum. Dr. Shattuck also testified he found Faber suffering from general paresis.

Dr. Shattuck said he proved to his satisfaction that Faber was diseased.

Attorney William R. Schmitt, who represented Dr. Shattuck in the Milten-Faber trial, declared the detention of Dr. Shattuck was a "frame-up" to weaken the insanity defense of his client.

"It was a last minute effort made in desperation because of the testimony given by the defense witnesses for Faber," Schmitt said. "I will report on the defense, however, I will report on the defense and continue his case until after the trial. It is a deliberate frame-up."

Dr. Shattuck's evidence cannot be impeached unless he is convicted and I think there will be considerable difficulty in getting a conviction against him."

REPEAL 800,000 U.S. INCOME
By Associated Press.
Washington, June 5.—Half a year of repeal has found the drinkers of America putting away just about as much legal hard stuff as before prohibition. But the taste for legal beer and ale is less than half the old-time average of 3,800,000,000 gallons a year.

So the tax figures indicated the bootleg supply, which officials have declared to be still enormous. Repeal, six months old today, is paying the federal government taxes of about $25,000,000 monthly, or about $300,000,000 a year.

Lower rates returned before prohibition.

Norwich Elects Democrat
Norwich, Ct., June 5.—Mayor Edward G. Stone, Democrat, was re-elected in that office for a two-year term, defeating Len Roy by 290 to 268.

Triplets Send Sistine Note
By Associated Press.
Chicago, June 5.—John, June and Joan Fairfax, 2½-year-old triplets, who contracted measles about the same time as did President Roosevelt's 7-year-old granddaughter, Sistine, are recovered and hope Sistine has, too.

They were a note of sympathy to Sistine when she was taken ill and felt Sistine would be glad to hear they had recovered. So yesterday, they mailed her this letter:

"Dear Sister: We just got home three days ago from County Cottage Hospital, where we have been for the past three months. We hope your measles are better and that you can come and see us soon. Love, John, June and Joan Fairfax, 7-year-old triplets."

"They hadn't heard that Sistine had fully recovered."

FUND TO AID THIRSTY TOTS

poor alike may slake their thirst in summer heat.

With a fund started by its own $100, and bolstered immediately with an equal amount from P. A. Coleman of the South End, the Boston Evening American is determined to see that the fountain Mayor Mansfield says he cannot supply, are plentifully filled with ice all summer.

The bill is estimated at $2700. A small sum compared with the price in lives that might be paid through lack of it.

Cool, refreshing water will keep children centered at the cooling spots of the city. It will keep them away from the dangers in congested streets.

The Free Ice Fund Editor does not ask $100 from everyone. You can help with nickels, or dimes, or quarters, or dollar bills. You can do a service to mankind.

Your contributions will be received by the Free Ice Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass.

Dr. Stafford Gets Columbia Degree

Columbia University at its commencement exercises today conferred the degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology upon the Rev. Dr. Russell H. Stafford, pastor of the Old South church.

Water, Water Everywhere, But—

The change you give will change this. Healthy youngsters at healthful play have simply GOT TO have a cooling drink. The city says it cannot afford the ice. Mayor Mansfield is obdurate on his no-ice-lund stand. So the Boston Evening American has come to the rescue. An ice fund has been started for public subscription, five dimes, nickels—dollars if you can—and these children in Belmont Park, East Boston, and in the other playgrounds and parks, will have water to drink that isn't warm and tasteless and unsatisfying. KANE'S SALES SET NEW PEAK

The Kane Furniture Co. did more business during May than in any month in the concern's history, today declared Harry Kane, president.

"The month of May," said Mr. Kane, was the highest in our history. We sold more units of furniture and had a larger dollar volume of business than in any single month since we opened our doors. Our fondest hopes were surpassed."

Kane's had previously announced an increase of 55 per cent for the first quarter of 1934 over the corresponding period of 1933. The company's increases are indicative of generally improved retail business, according to Mr. Kane.

3 States Join in Hunt for Vt. Bandit

By Associated Press. Danville, Vt., June 4.—Police of three states today joined in a search for five bandits who yesterday robbed the Caledonia National Bank of $2600 in cash and an unestimated amount of Liberty Bonds after terrorizing four bank employees.

While police of Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine concentrated activities in a search for the bandits, Governor Stanley C. Wilson announced he stood ready to aid in any way possible in the search and postponed a scheduled address in Burlington last night to be on hand if his services were needed.

SUFFOLK JUDGE FIRES JUROR

Michael J. A. Cotone, a chauffeur living in West Seventh street, South Boston, a member of the Suffolk county grand jury since January, was dismissed today from further service by Judge Louis S. Cox, in superior court. The dismissal came, according to the district attorney's office, after two witnesses, who were to testify before the grand jury today, had informed Judge Cox that Cotone attempted to get them to "lay off" on their testimony.

Both witnesses said they had been approached shortly before today's session was due to open. They reported the incident to Court Officer Henry Murphy, in charge of the session, and he reported it to Assistant District Attorney Daniel J. Gillen.

The two witnesses were taken before Judge Cox and told their story. Then Cotone was sent for and summarily dismissed. He returned to the juror's room, took his hat and departed.

Experience of Camel smokers is now Explained

From a famous research laboratory in New York comes a basic discovery that throws new light on our past knowledge about cigarettes. It embodies an "energizing effect" . . . a harmless restoration of the flow of natural body energy . . . a delightful relief from fatigue and irritability. When you smoke a Camel you enjoy an increase in your flow of energy. And this benefit you get from smoking Camels can be enjoyed all through the day . . . without upsetting your nerves.

That's just one of the many, many times during the day when you will want to light up a Camel—for restoring your flow of healthful energy. You'll like Camels—a matchless blend of costlier tobaccos!

CAMEL'S Costlier Tobaccos never get on your Nerves

Camels are made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic—than any other popular brand.

Important Facts for Smokers Discovered by Science!

Let CAMELS Increase Your Flow of ENERGY

Tired? Light a Camel. And as you enjoy its cool, pleasing fragrance, you feel a new flow of energy...a cheering "lift," a quick and delightful "energizing" effect.

IT'S YOUR OWN NATURAL ENERGY RELEASED

You've probably noticed this yourself and have wondered why and how it happened. The "lift" you get from Camels is a release of your own natural energy...your latent energy made easily and harmlessly available. So when you're feeling run-down, tired, "all in," smoke a Camel and see what happens. That tired feeling slips away. You're ready again for work and fun. Camels have helped your own body to help itself and bring you back in "pep" and energy.

AND CAMELS NEVER JANGLE YOUR NERVES

You can smoke just as many of these delightful Camels as you want. You can increase your flow of energy over and over again. And you need never worry about your nerves. For remember: Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

New York, June 5.—Not wishing to seem too deeply moved by a spectacle that may, after all, turn out to be something refined and chaste in tableaux or maybe a study in still life, but the indications now are that Carnera and Beer are liable to put on a very disorderly encounter June 14, with something rather good in the way of garrotting and gouging.

In fact, there's only one thing they won't stand for: There's to be absolutely no hitting in the clinches with paving blocks.

It was John Dempsey, supposedly the alter ego of the Baer lineup, who first dropped a hint to this effect this morning.

Beyond that, John would vouchsafe nothing. But it was enough. I recall one very hot afternoon in Saratoga when he dropped another hint, just a few days before he fought Sharkey. He had a hired hint-dropper all the time. In fact, called Leo P. Flynn, who did these Sucking loudly on the remnant of a lamb chop and with suspenders drooping stylishly down upon his chasme, he confided the idea that both fighters paint a belt-line upon their bodies, so that there would be no mistake about low punches.

Nobody attached much importance to the matter at the time except Sharkey and me. All I did was write the story. But I must have vastly impressed Sharkey because, when he thought he was hit low in the seventh round, he turned to lodge a protest, dropping everything, including his hands.

The next second he was face down on the floor and I don't suppose it is necessary to add that he stayed there for a while. And, if

GOODMAN AND LITTLE DIFFER ON CHANCES IN NATIONAL OPEN

CHAMP TAKES SARCASM TO TASK

Associated Press
Philadelphia, June 5.—Given a fair share of the breeze, Johnny Goodman, tow-headed Nebraska amateur golfer, has a better than fifty-fifty chance of retaining the national open golf championship. The 72-hole test begins here Tuesday.

Back 24 hours after a six-week golf trip to England with the American Walker Cup forces, Goodman listened carefully today to reports that Gene Sarazen, he couldn't repeat and that betting men had made him a 20 to 1 shot and two sided his price.

"In the first place I have my name pretty well to hand," Johnson said, "even though I didn't handle a club all the way over on the boat. If he back in top form once I go all the way around this golf course, I can knock him out. I haven't been over Merion since the amateur championship in 1930."

MIST GET BREAKS

"Now for Gene Sarazen and the betting men. Any golfer, and this goes for Sarazen, has to be lucky to win an open championship. Sure it takes good golf—but four hot rounds, to be accurate—is to win. But you can't overlook the matter of the weather. I'm perfectly satisfied to match my game with other fellows here, and if the good bird has his hand on his shoulder as he did at Chicago last year, he'll have a swell chance of coming through."

After John an uttered his reply to Sarazen and the betting men, Little shook his head and said:

LITTLE'S VIEW DIFFERS

"No, Johnny, I think you're wrong. In the first place, there are 30 amateurs in the field against 13 professionals. That makes us four to one shots to begin with. Then we amateurs don't have the luxury in club handling the pros do. We're out with the exception of Bobby Jones, there isn't one amateur in this country who can give any one of the two much game. We don't have a ghost of a chance of winning."

Johnny started up and in the Walker Cup traveling mate took deep breath and said:

"Just give me a fair share of the breeze and I'll show you different," the Omaha star replied.

SPEAKING OF NEWS: The

The final announcement will show Browning signing Jack Curley, promoter of the fight, for $25,000, and the fight will be held with only two weeks to go.

WOMEN'S YACHT SERIES IS LOST TO COHASSET

By E. R. Schriftgiesser

The loss of the national women's sailing championship from Cohasset to the American Yacht Club at New York is a serious blow to the North American Yacht Racing Union.

The change to New York, where the race will be held, was announced by the North American Yacht Racing Union last fall, having been the result of a decision by the union's executive committee.

The final announcement will show Browning signing Jack Curley, promoter of the fight, for $25,000, and the fight will be held with only two weeks to go.

CRUDE PETROLEUM PRODUCTION FOR APRIL ESTIMATED

By Associated Press
Washington, June 5.—April crude petroleum production in the United States was estimated today by the Bureau of Mines at 74,795,000 barrels, a daily average of 228,000 barrels.

This was an increase of 80,000 barrels over the daily average of the previous month and 340,000 barrels over April, 1933, when the daily average was 74,000 barrels.

Textile Trade Peace Is Highly Desirable

THE danger of a strike or lockout in the great textile industry has been averted for the present at least, and the public will breathe a sigh of relief and a prayer of satisfaction.

The textiles and the boots and shoes are still the basic industries of New England. Without their prosperity, New England as a whole cannot be fully prosperous.

Not alone the 50,000 operatives and their 200,000 dependents in New England would be affected but the whole economic structure of this section of the country would be disturbed by any prolonged suspension of the industry.

Every section of our trade, from the most powerful bank to the most humble corner grocer, would suffer the effects, indirectly at least.

For these reasons, it is the fervent hope of every sensible person in New England that the differences which now separate the mill owners and the operatives will be amicably closed by the peaceful system of arbitration.

The textile industry was the first industry in this country upon which the NRA was imposed. Business in the textile industry leaped forward and a chorus of halloos sprang from the throats of those who believed at first blush that the magic of the NRA had come to lift this country out of the economic depression that had gone along almost uninterrupted for four years.

It is true that the NRA did bring some advantage to this particular industry, in New England. Wages were standardized. Working hours and working conditions were standardized.

For the time being, at least, there was removed the competitive handicap which Massachusetts had established against herself by granting her textile operatives more humane standards than exist in the long-hour, low-wage States of the South.

Now we are to see the other side of the NRA. We have come to believe that the first flurry of increased business in the textile industry was not from any magic in the NRA but from the ordinary law of supply and demand. The country had begun to move forward, anyway. Retail tradesmen were ordering supplies from the mills to stock up their barren or idle shelves. The public were beginning to buy.

As we look back upon the original scene and upon the subsequent developments, we are constrained to believe that not only would business have increased and improved without the NRA but that it would have developed with more striking progress without the uncertainties of the NRA and without the interference into business by the "college boys" at Washington.

We are still in the phase of the picture from the latest developments within the textile field. We hear the operatives told that if they strike and we hear the mill-owners told that if they order a lockout, they will be guilty of an overt act against the government itself.

In substance, we learn that if the government imposes unjust conditions upon the workers or if the government imposes unjust conditions upon the mill-owners, they must accept this deprivation of their rights because the government has a hand in the matter. In other words, we now see the government interference into business to an extent which it never before practiced in time of peace.

Apart from all this, we desire to see industrial trouble avoided in the textiles of New England. Steady work and reasonable wages are too important to the operatives and continued operation and reasonable profits on their investments are too important to the mill-owners to have them defaulted by any capricious differences between the two parties.

It has been an axiom that if any two men would sit down in a friendly spirit and see each other's point of view, they would find their differences would soon disappear into thin air. This, we hope, will be the amicable attitude in the textile industry of New England and throughout the Nation.

Pass the Drug Act

The Uniform Narcotic Drug Act is now before the Senate of Massachusetts for action.

The purpose of this act is to curtail and suppress the alarming increase in the use of habit-forming drugs.

Its purpose is to abate or eliminate entirely, if possible, the worst evil that afflicts humanity.

Whether the act shall be successful depends upon the integrity, the rectitude, the honesty of purpose of the forty men who compose the Senate of Massachusetts.

The use of habit-forming drugs has increased in Massachusetts, as throughout the country. The bootlegger and the racketeer, with profits gone or diminished since the repeal of prohibition, have turned to the accursed traffic in dope.

The dope pedlar is the louse of the earth. He preys upon the helpless and depraved. He makes his profit from the affliction of the helpless drug addict and from the anguish of the relatives of the unfortunate addict who bear his suffering and humiliation with him.

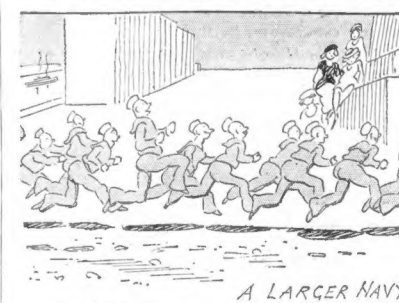

There cannot be and there should not be in the Massachusetts Senate any sympathy for the man who personifies in drugs and thereby brings a deadly profit by destroying the bodily health, the morals and the intellect of human beings.

The Uniform Narcotic Drug Act, now before the Senate, makes the possession of the narcotic drug a felony. It ought to be a felony. The drug is illegal. The person who has it in his possession may be assumed to be engaged in traffic of it. He can have no other and no legitimate use for it.

The proposed law works no hardship upon honest industry. It is designed to protect human beings from the vicious denizens of the underworld who exploit human beings.

This Drug Act is the result of legislative conferences among Nations. It already has been adopted by New York, New Jersey, Florida, Nevada, South Carolina, Kentucky, Virginia and Rhode Island. Everywhere it has yet been introduced a Legislature it has been accepted with acclaim because of its intended and its obvious benefit to society. Let us expect that the Massachusetts Senate will pass Massachusetts in line with these other great Commonwealths. Let it be said of her, "Massachusetts, there she stands," in the front line of progress.

WHY DO SOME FIDDLE? WHY DO OTHERS BELIEVE TAIL TALK?

For six weeks she wrote a daily letter. In each letter came from details of her tragedy. A world, her name, a story of a devoted young wife, an invalid, baby-hunger, loneliness, sickness and despair. In each letter came from details of her tragedy. A world, her name, a story of a devoted young wife, an invalid, baby-hunger, loneliness, sickness and despair.

It was just as I had expected. For the 1842 time, someone had made a sucker out of me. The Frightful Tragedy wasn't a tragedy at all. The lady wasn't dead, starving or persecuted. The "monster" proved to be a meek, meek, and most miserable little man, who hadn't the slightest idea what she was All About; but was quite willing to support her if she'd only send her address.

And the "sick baby" was a husky little babe who lived with Grandma and hadn't even been Anguished Mama in two years. In short, the whole thing was an elaborate farce invented by a neurotic young woman to give herself importance and publicity. But haven't children always been like that? What did my influential women friends do when I told them; showed them the proofs? They did nothing. To the contrary, they refused to believe me, branded me as a heartless monster and continued to sigh and weep over their "Cursed Mary." Which undoubtedly they will continue to do until a Sadder and Slicker Sensation Sheet comes along.

less. I'd write my women friends. But they beat me to it. They, too, had heard her pitiful story and were determined to "show that horrible man up."

So, for a few weeks everything was in a Delirious Stew. Then, a small, icy doubt began to stir. I wondered, I investigated. Yes, it was just as I had expected. For the 1842 time, someone had made a sucker out of me.

In a short time our infant Munchausen is hinting to the kid Average Listener "to speed the spinner."

But why? Why should smart women accept such a tale? For exactly the same reason that a smart young woman invented it. They, too, hungered for excitement and importance, which a Hercules Crusade plus plenty of flattery supplied. Moreover, having started a riot, they weren't going to let a little rifle like Truth stop them.

In this true story? It is. And it happens in every city in America. Every newspaper writer, social service worker or club-woman comes across not one but scores of such cases, male and female. How come? What makes people believe such awful lies?

They don't start by "peddling awful lies." The trouble commences when the liar is a youngster, disoriented with the shablonism of his lot, sorry for himself, disheartened feverishly that "something exciting would happen" trying to find escape and satisfaction in day dreams.

But haven't children always been like that? What did my influential women friends do when I told them; showed them the proofs? They did nothing. To the contrary, they refused to believe me, branded me as a heartless monster and continued to sigh and weep over their "Cursed Mary." Which undoubtedly they will continue to do until a Sadder and Slicker Sensation Sheet comes along.

Garner Sets Example for All Members of Congress

By James T. Williams, Jr.

VICE-PRESIDENT Garner has served notice that he is going to the Capitol to the United States to catch a train for his home in Union, Texas, on June 10, the day of his gavel address the session of the Upper House.

It would be a service to themselves and to the nation if all senators and representatives in Congress would follow Mr. Garner's example and start home at the same time.

HOUSE CONTACTS NEEDED Vice-President Garner is not going home but he intends to see every senator and representative in Congress before Christmas, returning to Washington in time for the opening session of the new Congress next January.

It would be a service to themselves and to the nation if all senators and representatives in Congress would follow Mr. Garner in this regard.

One-third of the Senate and all of the House of Representatives are elected this year. This means that this is the last session of Congress for some senators and more representatives.

But over and above the changes in the election of members of Congress will come the changes in the national legislature which will come in January. And this is so for the following reasons:

Administration badly needs a chance to catch up with legislation. Much legislation has been enacted since President Roosevelt's inauguration. Some of the most important of these laws are now on the books. The new laws are so expertly and so quickly enacted that the time is required to assemble the machinery for their execution.

These are essentially administrative tasks. They are not in the nature of legislation. They are not in the nature of legislation. They are not in the nature of legislation.

Senators and representatives in Congress will find the time to do their duty. They will find the time to do their duty. They will find the time to do their duty.
